

THE FARO CONVENTION IMPLEMENTATION.
HERITAGE COMMUNITIES AS COMMONS: RELATIONSHIPS, PARTICIPATION AND WELL-BEING IN A SHARED MULTIDISCIPLINARY PERSPECTIVE

16-17 December 2021, Naples and virtual

CALL FOR PAPER

Deadline: 26/09/2021

The recent ratification of the Framework Convention on the Value of Cultural Heritage for Society (Faro Convention) by Italy brings the debate on the theme of cultural heritage as a common good in its various material and immaterial dimensions and linked it to the identity of places and communities up to date. The Convention affirms that all forms of cultural heritage in Europe that together constitute a shared source of legacy, understanding, identity, cohesion and creativity are part of cultural heritage. This broad definition, which also refers to the role and function of citizen participation, opens the door to a multitude of possible intercultural and inter-institutional collaborations and innovative ways of promoting the development of cultural sites, communities and heritage.

Cultural heritage provides communities with tangible and intangible experiences that favor the perception of common past and traditions, creating connections between citizens and places and between citizens and the community of which they are part, favoring a focus on local dimensions, enhancing resources and natural, environmental, cultural and social heritage, improving the quality of life. They offer opportunities for discussion and debate on issues affecting the entire community, as well as to expand their social network, impacting the ties within and with the community through their physical and social characteristics and through the social and cultural environment that they host as part of "The Faro Convention Implementation" 2021 conference.

"Heritage Communities as Commons: Relationships, Participation and Well-being in a Shared Multidisciplinary Perspective", scientific contributions about innovative theoretical and methodological perspectives of intervention and best practices will be presented. They are aimed at promoting the enhancement of cultural heritage, the development of places and communities and the connections of citizens with them, in an interdisciplinary, intercultural, and inter-institutional perspective. Scholars and professionals of human relations and habitat: psychologists, sociologists, architects, economists, lawyers, social and cultural managers with a synergistic and multi-professional action will act for the realization of these principles.

For this purpose, the Community Psychology Lab (Humanities Department) of the University Federico II and IRISS (Institute for Research on Innovation and Development Services) of the National Research Council of Italy, with SIPO (Italian Society of Community Psychology), ANIAI (National Association of Italian Engineers and Architects), AIP (Associazione Italiana di Psicologia), PSI-COM APS (Associazione di Promozione Sociale), and the Venice Office of the Council of Europe invite you to a scientific and cultural meeting on these issues in Naples on 16 and 17 December 2021, in the Complex of SS. Marcellino and Festo Ateneo Federico II.

Abstracts (max 250 words) in Italian or English must be sent, according to the following format, to the Organizing Secretariat (email: naplesfaroconvention2021@gmail.com) no later than 26.09.2021. The communication of the acceptance will be sent, within 07.10.2021, to the e-mail address indicated in the abstract. A special issue to which participants will be able to contribute is planned.

Scholars, belonging to different disciplinary fields, are called to investigate and discuss, in the perspective of the Faro Convention, the following issues aimed at the development of Heritage Communities:

1. Places, participation, values and connections
2. Individual and collective rights in the participatory management of heritage
3. Cultural commons, valorization of cultural heritage and urban regeneration
4. Collaborative governance, management and business development
5. Identity of places, attachment, belonging and sense of community
6. Coexistence, ties and memory
